Dear Dick:

I would like you to know how much I appreciate the fine support which the Central Intelligence Agency has provided us in the information handling area over the past two years. Your people in the Office of Computer Services have been completely responsive to all our needs. Their technical proficiency has produced a smooth operation on a day-to-day basis which has been most helpful to me.

We have now arrived at the point where we can handle this job with our own facilities and, barring any unforeseen difficulties, can forego further support from you on a daily basis. We would still welcome the opportunity to consult with your excellent staff from time to time on technical matters.

Please convey my sincere thanks to all who were involved.

Warm regards,

Henry A. Kissinger

Honorable Richard Helms
Director of Central Intelligence
